Poll: Obama holds lead in NJ

Published: August 29, 2012 5:38 AM
By The Associated Press

(AP) -- Personality is giving President Barack Obama the edge over Mitt Romney among New Jersey voters surveyed in a Rutgers-Eagleton Poll released Wednesday.

Obama continues to hold a double-digit lead with 51 percent of likely voters saying they'd vote for him compared to 37 percent for Mitt Romney.

The president maintains his lead despite 57 percent of likely New Jersey voters saying...
